JAPAN'THER
"Rock 'N' Roll Ice Cream"
March 2, 2010
Catalog # MPK 7055

We're all dying, aren't we? And we're not teaching each other what we really know— it's so wrong and sad! —Marilyn Monroe in The Misfits

Described as a “Performance Galaxy” by Vanity Fair and “Super hard, incredibly fast and overall inspiring” by Thrasher, Japanther (www.japanther.com) has always been a band apart, running the gamut from performance art to punk rock and back again. Pushing parties to the limit and only stopping short of riots, Japanther returns in 2010 with new member Anita Sparrows (The Soviettes) and Rock ‘n’ Roll Ice Cream (Menlo Park Recordings, March 2). Says Ian Vanek, “We met Miss Sparrows on Christmas Eve in San Pedro and formed an instant bond. She is family to us and making music with her is just a part of it.” With Sparrows on board, Vanek and Matt Reilly flew to Los Angeles to work with producer Michael Blum, whose past projects with Michael Jackson, Madonna (Like a Prayer, Who’s That Girl), Pink Floyd and Suicidal Tendencies seemed a daring fit for Rock ‘n’ Roll Ice Cream, an album envisioned by Japanther as a dance party— and all the kids are invited. “Telephone mics? Really?” exclaimed Michael as the group began what was to become a near-perfect expression of an underground sound. Continuing Japanther’s established habit of collaborating with inspiring icons from every scene, legendary poet Eileen Myles (Cool For You, Chelsea Girls) appears on two astonishing tracks.

Rock ‘n’ Roll Ice Cream was put together with the idea of album sides in mind, and will be available on vinyl and digitally. Nowadays, says Vanek, “records often feel like exercises in hitting fast forward. With Rock ‘n’ Roll Ice Cream, we wanted a burner from end to end, with the possibility of listening to side two with your morning coffee.” The cover for the new album was created by artist Elisabeth Arkhipoff, known for her collaborations with musicians and fashion designers such as M83, Sport Hit Paradise, Tahiti 80, Anna Sui, Eley Kishimoto and Swarovski.

Her work has been featured in Graffik, Tokion, Creative Review, ZOO, Vogue, +81, Self Service, Dazed & Confused, Studio Voice and SHOWstudio.com.

The story behind Rock 'n' Roll Ice Cream is an adventure tale of exploring harmonies, writing together, and a little bit of that West Coast surf vibe whilst lurking a bit towards Japanther's salad days in Brooklyn to draw on pop hooks and simple drum parts that make skating seem easier and bikes move faster. Manifesting their usual elemental drive, Japanther spent 2009 performing nine months out of twelve in a nomadic existence that took the band to Houston, Toronto, Oakland's Hoodstock, LA's Fuck Yeah Fest, SXSW, HardPop in Ciudad Juárez, The Halifax Pop Explosion, multiple illegal shows on the Williamsburg Bridge... the list goes on.

Japanther is a time-based performance duo, formed in 2001 by Ian Vanek and Matt Reilly. Their music is intense, danceable and fun. In Japanther's near decade of baffling unsuspecting audiences and amassing new fans, the boys have toured Europe, Australia, Mexico, Canada and the US constantly while working in museums on all types of "Art Projects." Synchronized swimmers, illegal shows, marionettes and giant puppets have all been employed successfully again and again, all in an attempt to redefine what bands, groups and gangs can do.
